

Bangladesh: Poetic Aphorism of Socio-Political Economy

Aphorism is a short phrase that contains a wise idea. In this context, the socio-political economy of Bangladesh is described below in an aphoristic form. Here, poetic aphorism of socio-political economy of Bangladesh is a brief description of the facts and figure about its people's life and living.

Common people are crazy for democracy
Politics is bent more towards hyperocracy than democracy
Real politics is in reality a role-player of autocracy
Bureaucracy is taking an upper hand on democracy
Elites, politicians and bureaucrats are from the minority
Rest of the people is grouped as majority
Minority lives at the expense of majority
So, minority's gain is a majority's pain
Democracy wishes to make people equitable
People ultimately live in inequality
Politics is busy applying undesired tactics
Bureaucracy is busy in taking over malpractice
Business becomes the motive of profiteering abnormally
Above all insincere minority is ultimately known nationally
Politics, bureaucracy and business are the leading triple
Majority people are getting crippled.
