Economic Policy

Developing country needs economic policy for expansion.

Objective can't be achieved with a policy of contraction.

Standard life and living is our aspiration.

Contractionary policy gives deduction instead of addition.

Increase in fiscal budget should be an action.

Decreasing the fiscal budget would be revolted as reaction.

Sound monetary & fiscal policy are the development foundation.

For a rapid development the government needs to obtain consultation.

Expansionary policy creates jobs and occupation.

Opportunity of employment can be achieved by increasing profession.

Too much expansion might create inflation.

With increasing inflation, achievement is estimated at a small fraction.

Appropriate policy needs a professional discussion.

Wrong policy can be reflected as an economic destruction.

Best policy is a mix-of fiscal and monitory combination.

If the policy becomes favourable, productivity can be found in evaluation.

As a policy maker the government will receive people's reception.

Prof. Dr. M. Azizur Rahman
Vice-Chancellor
Uttara University