

Normative Politics

As a philosopher, politicians should be positive.

Increasing the social welfare should be the politician's motive.

Right politics & policy for people would be very lucrative.

To people, liberal and constructive politics will be very magnetic.

Liberal politics will work for people as they want to be protective.

Instead of traditional thought, modern politics will be creative.

In choosing the goal and objective, politicians should be selective.

As assumed, general people and voters are not rustic.

According to people, politicians have to be democratic.

But unfortunately, many politicians are hypocritical.

Their personality is sometimes rather sadistic.

So, we don't expect if their action and reaction is negative.

Wrong policy and planning can be very destructive.

Above action can be very pathetic for all native and non-native.

To increase people's welfare, politicians should be sympathetic.

Therefore, for a good policy, politician's thought should be normative.
